LAST WEEK'S MEETING

Historian Gillian Hibbins said football stretches back for centuries and all around the world. There was little football in the 1840s here although we did celebrate the Port Phillip District becoming the Colony of Victoria in 1850.

The gold rushes brought thousands of young men to Victoria in the 1850s, many of whom must have had experience of football in England where games were played but only with rules agreed before each game. It was the publican at the hotel in Wellington Parade, Jerry Bryant, who provided a football and inspired six pick-up games played in the spring of 1858 near the MCG. These were chaotic and it was agreed that agreement on rules was necessary.

At the start of the winter in 1859 about fifty young men formed the Melbourne Football Club, and three days afterwards at the Parade Hotel, on 17 May, a committee of four met. They were journalists James Thompson and William Hammersley, who had been at Cambridge University, teacher Tom Smith, who had attended Dublin University and young cricketer Tom Wills who was keen to introduce Rugby School football which he had learnt in England. But the older men were not keen on Rugby School's rough play or offside rules. Ultimately they agreed on ten rules which formed the basis for the code we now have.

There is no evidence to date that the different games of indigenous football which had been played around Victoria had an influence on the choice of these early rules. Australian Football Rules are the oldest continuous code in the world, soccer being codified in 1863 and rugby in 1871. Something to be proud of!

PEACE

PEACE CITIES.

The concept of Rotary District D9700 Community Peace Cities/Towns was conceived in Wagga Wagga, NSW, Australia, by Rotarian Tony Quinlivan and the city became the first Peace Community on 23 February 1993 with the Community Peace Monument being unveiled by PRIP Royce Abbey and local Mayor Pat Brassil. Since then, 58 Peace Communities have been proclaimed in 17 countries around the globe.

Rotary D9700 Community Peace Credo:

respect for the life and dignity of every person, without discrimination or prejudice rejection of violence in all of its forms and towards all people resolution of conflict among people within local and global communities reconciliation of differences and the pursuit of harmony freedom of expression and cultural diversity

Peace Communities are founded on the ideal of Community Service. The promotion and support of projects encouraging the rejection of violence, the resolution of conflict, and the promotion of community harmony are supported. Projects that advance tolerance, improve understanding and further peace within the home and neighborhood, are particularly important to Communities. These are the pathways to peace in the wider arena.

In proclaiming Peace Communities, cooperative partnerships are formed between Rotary and Local Government bodies. On or around 23 February, 'Rotary Peace Day' each year a ceremony is held, to identify and reward by public recognition, citizens providing "Community Service", delivering outstanding community benefits, through voluntary activities. Nominated local High Schools are also invited to submit details of their Community Service work during the year and are presented with certificates acknowledging the valuable contribution that they have made to the community.

Peace transcends the simplistic view of an absence of war and encompasses all those measures that improve human relations with positive and harmonious outcomes. Violence and conflict are pervasive global phenomena that are seriously affecting the well being of communities. The rejection of violence the respect for life and human dignity, the resolution of personal and urban violence and the reconciliation of differences can realize those freedoms under which peace and harmony can flourish.
